

Quick Tips for Submitting CPP Grant Proposals

(UR Undergraduates)

- Review and reflect on the Communal Principles definition of Responsibility prior to writing proposal.

Freedom and responsibility are two sides of the same coin. To uphold this kind of freedom of expression and action in the public arena, each person has the responsibility to own his or her ideas and actions as well as express them in ways that do not limit or threaten others' freedom to learn, teach and work. This means that ideas and actions are neither anonymous nor isolated. To act or express one's ideas openly and in a responsible manner enhances the learning and growth of all. On the other hand, to act or express one's ideas in an irresponsible manner impinges on other's rights and freedom to learn and grow.

- You must go beyond the use of the word responsibility in the written proposal. Consider the following questions:
  - How does the proposed program enhance and/or promote responsibility in the University of Rochester community?
  - Who will this program impact?
  - How will the program's audience/participants engage in the program and understand the value of responsibility?
  - What will be the long-lasting effects of this program?
- Review guidelines and these tips before submitting your proposal.