Considered one of today’s leading experts in education for at-risk youth, Steve Mariotti changed career paths in 1982 to become a special education teacher in the New York City school system. Five years later, he founded the National Foundation for Teaching Entrepreneurship (NFTE), a program to bring entrepreneurial education to low-income youth. A native of Flint, Michigan, he has been the subject of many national media profiles on programs including ABC Evening News and 20/20. He is also the co-author of eight books on entrepreneurship. He started his professional career as a treasury analyst for Ford Motor Company.
