1963 Nicholas Borrelli (PhD) has published a book, Photosensitive Glass and Glass-Ceramics (CRC Press). A glass scientist and corporate fellow at Corning who has been at the company since 1962, Nicholas was also recognized at the 2016 International Commission on Glass's Congress of Glass with the ICG President's Award. The award recognizes "outstanding lifetime contributions to the international glass community" in areas such as "scientific discoveries, engineering developments, artistic accomplishments, leadership, and communications." Nicholas was instrumental in the development of Corning's first-generation photochromic products and has been recognized as a valued early career mentor during much of his time at Corning.

1967 Frank (PhD) and Mei-Chu Wang Hsaio (PhD) have published a book, Economic Development of Taiwan: Early Experiences and the Pacific Trade Triangle (World Scientific Publishing). Frank is a professor emeritus of economics at the University of Colorado, Boulder, and Mei-Chu is a professor emerita of economics at the University of Colorado at Denver.

1968 Frederick (Fred) Lewis (PhD), professor emeritus of chemistry at Northwestern University, won the 2016 Porter Medal, widely viewed as the highest honor in the field of photochemistry. The award, named for Nobel laureate George Porter, is presented every two years to a single scientist who, in the view of the European Photochemistry Association, the Inter-American

Sisters Celebrate

Last April, Rochester sisters of Delta Gamma (the Zeta Delta chapter) hosted a reunion in New York City to mark the approach of their 30th anniversary. More than 50 sisters from the classes of 1988 to 1995 attended, including many who helped found the chapter in the fall of 1986. They posed for a photo at Public House, near Grand Central Station, the site of a dinner that was among the highlights of the two-day event.

1984 Katherine Chaurrette (MS) (see '83 College).

1986 Andrea Baird (MS) died in October 2015. Her sister, Dean, writes: "Andrea worked for nearly her entire career at the U.S. Department of Education, and was a prolific researcher and writer. Although her life was short, her accomplishments were many. She always spoke highly of her time at Rochester, and was a proud alumnus."

1999 Tadeusz (Ted) Lewandowski (MA) has published Red Bird, Red Power: The Life and Legacy of Zitkala-Ša (University of Oklahoma Press). Ted is an associate professor in the Department of Anglophone Cultures at the University of Opole in Poland.
