This guide describes the steps to set up wireless Pharos printing on your personal Macintosh computer. After installation you will be able to print wirelessly to the University's pay-for-print system. This installer will only run on Macs running OS-X.

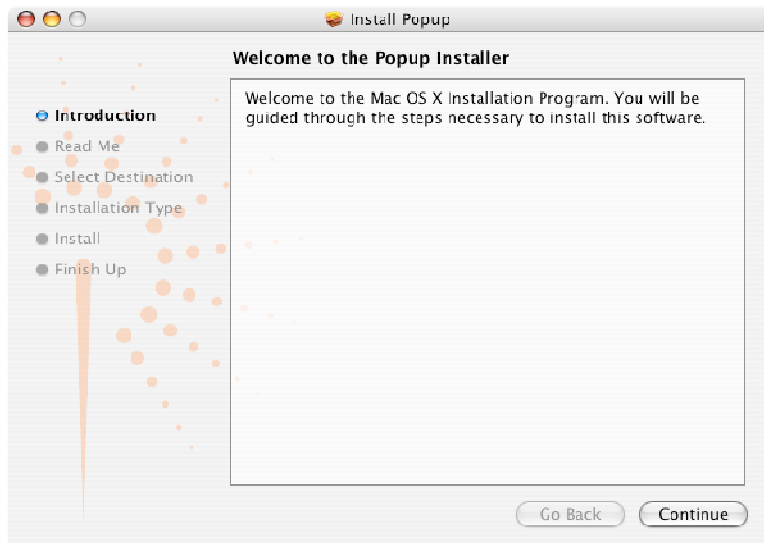

This package has been updated to be compatible with Apple 10.5 Leopard operating system.

If you have any questions please contact the IT Helpdesk on 5-2000.

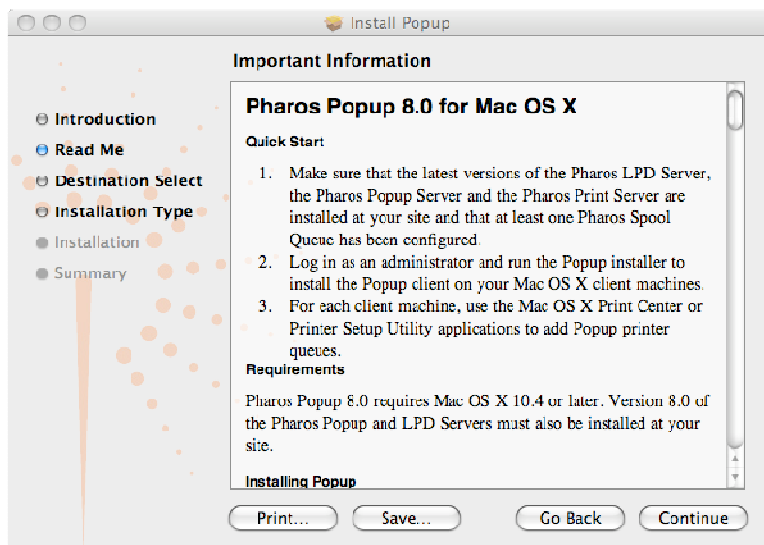

Follow these steps:

1. Download the installer package: IT_Lab_Wireless08.dmg and launch it.
2. After it mounts, you will see the Popup.pkg file, double click on it.

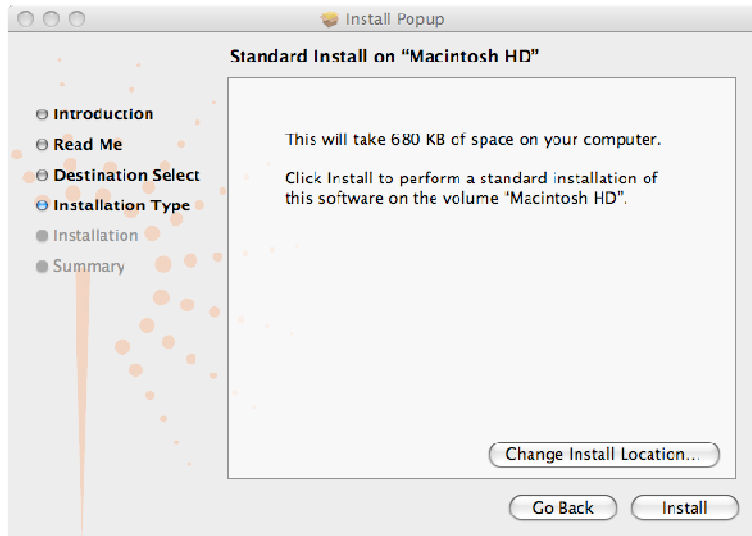

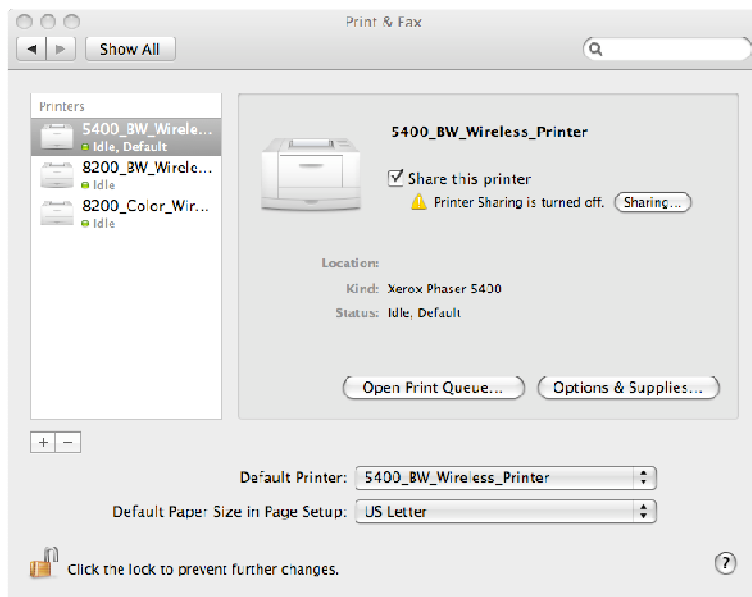

4. Choose to Continue.

5. These steps are automated in this installer; click on continue.

6. Default installation drive is Macintosh HD; click on continue.

7. The installation will proceed to setup the three available print queues on your system.

Do NOT rename these printers or printing will not work.

Now you can print as normal, selecting whichever printer you desire when you go to print your file. Please see page 4 for printer list.

As within the IT public labs, you will be prompted to name your print job. Due to current limitations of the wireless network, you will not receive a cost confirmation popup on your computer. Please pay attention to the cost on the release station when you select your job, before you click on print.

When a print job is submitted to a particular queue, it can be printed from several printers around campus. The 3 print queues can be released in the following locations;
