COLLAPSE

Overall Rating: ★★★★★

From your past, think about a favorite teacher and class that had a great learning experience.

What was unique about that instruction? Was it well designed? Did it grab your attention right away? What methods stand out to you from that experience and what can you share with your classmates that was effective?

FACILITATING PEER REVIEW

Why Peer Review

Create an opportunity for your students to collaborate and share their individual views and knowledge with their classmates regarding papers or projects.

This feedback benefits the student author and the student reviewer, and can be a great addition beyond the feedback from the professor.

Individual Lesson Plan Sharing ▼

Availability: Item is hidden from students. It will be available after Jul 26, 2020 12:00 AM.
Share your individual lesson plan in this discussion board by Thursday.

At this point you should be able to think critically about a lesson and provide helpful feedback to your classmate on potential changes. You should be able to ask good questions that will help your classmate further develop their teaching plans. No lesson is perfect - I take feedback from students and make changes to my lessons every semester.

Review the lesson plan of your thinking partner and provide feedback to them by Sunday.

Check the discussion board for feedback from your thinking partner after Sunday.
Check the graded area of this discussion board after Sunday for feedback from the instructor.

Use feedback from all sources to develop your final lesson plan which you will create in Blackboard and will be turned in later during Module 10.

Use the same Lesson Planning template that we have been using: Lesson Planning Template ▼

(Note that you can continue from the development you did earlier in this course, you do not need to start from scratch unless you choose to).

How To: Click on the link for the discussion board. Click "Create Thread" and provide a name for your topic. Create a first post and attach your lesson plan as an attachment for your thinking partner to review.

Thinking Partners: You can choose to use Track changes and attach a reviewed document in a reply to your classmate, or you can provide a list of helpful thoughts, questions, and changes directly in your post.
