LEADERSHIP COACHING

Coaching is about growth.

Tiger Woods has a swing coach. Luciano Pavarotti has a voice coach. Oprah Winfrey has a life coach.

A leadership coach helps a leader make the transition from good to very good ... from very good to great. Coaching is about growth. It is not a deficit model. Our Leadership Coaching program is about meeting our leaders where they are and helping them grow professionally and personally. We have over 40 highly successful school leadership coaches ready to commit to the growth and development of schools through the continuous improvement of their leaders.

Why be coached?

- It helps school leaders become the best they can be.
- Coaching has been shown to improve effectiveness on the job and enhance overall personal well-being off the job.

What do we do?

- We listen, learn, and help leaders reflect.
- We share best practices, but don't impose our views.
- We sustain a confidential, highly-focused relationship intended to support the school leader in front of us.

What can you expect?

- An outstanding and experienced school leader who works with you once or twice a month.
- Additional access to your coach via electronic communication.
- Access our user forums built around issues you are facing as a school leader.

"As a superintendent of schools, the Warner School's coaching program has been incredibly helpful to me personally and to our entire administrative team. The ability to have a thinking partner who can provide a wide-angle lens allows for the consideration of new ideas. Also, when a coach gets to know you, they can push back when necessary and challenge us to continue our lifelong learning. All of this allows us to better serve our students."
