

LiDA Colloquium Series

What can we learn about technology interventions?

Thursday, May 2 @ 3:00 pm - 4:30 pm in LeChase 215

Facilitated by: Eric E. Fredericksen, Associate Professor, Associate Director
Center for Learning in the Digital Age, Associate Vice President of Online
Learning

Sarah E. Peyre, Associate Dean for Innovative Education, Executive Director, Institute for Innovative Education, Professor of Surgery, Nursing, Medical Humanities and Bioethics

When educational institutions implement technologies to support teaching and learning, there may be questions about their value. Additionally, there are many challenges to understanding the impact on faculty and students. In our final LiDA session of the year, we will explore these issues, consider examples of successful projects from across the University, and brainstorm approaches to new initiatives.

We look forward to seeing you there.

Padlet: <https://padlet.com/lida18/0502>